

SWIMMER PROFILE

ANNA FINLAY

Mercurial talent Anna Finlay has had a meteoric rise in her short time in swimming. Being the shortest of three competitive swimming sisters, Anna is a natural born scrapper, often taking on insurmountable challenges head on and succeeding.

Massive congratulations to Anna on her selection for the Swim England National Development Programme, it is very well deserved and we are all very proud of her.

Anna's continuing successes in swimming have been achieved, due in no small part to her fantastic work ethic and will to win allied with a large helping of natural ability. As is the case with all swimmers, it will be Anna's desire to improve and constantly better herself that will see her prosper throughout her swimming career

Anna has won regional honours in all breaststroke events as well individual medley titles. She qualified a year early for SE Summer Nationals in 2019 and is currently ranked inside the top 3 in Britain at 100m breaststroke. I have no doubt whatsoever that Anna will continue to thrive in competition, given her dedication to training

She is a pleasure to coach, is an inspiration to her team mates and though she can sometimes try and hide how much her swimming means to her, continually asks the right questions and endeavours to improve herself.

Though now is the time to really push her swim skills, If Anna continues on this path she has a very bright future indeed. I think it is fair to say that Anna's biggest swimming influence lies in her own desire to succeed, and as long as this remains as fiery, her coaches will continue to give her the platform and impetuous for success.
